Brand Director | Louis Vuitton Moet Hennessy | Guerlain, Almaty, Kazakhstan

10/2022-12/2023

As the Brand Director for Guerlain, I oversaw all aspects of the business within the luxury perfumes and cosmetics industry. Responsible for a comprehensive range of functions beyond marketing, my role extended to financial reporting, communications, sales strategy, and team leadership. Under my direction, the brand experienced exceptional growth, achieving a remarkable 25% year-over-year increase in performance. This success positioned Guerlain among the top three luxury brands in the Kazakhstani market for perfumes and cosmetics. Managing a team of four in-office professionals and overseeing a field team of 35, I navigated a broad scope of responsibilities, ensuring alignment with company objectives while fostering a culture of excellence and collaboration.

- Developed and executed a successful brand marketing strategy including local sales channels (70 stores) and localizing merchandise and advertising according to the new launches
- Achieved strategic goals in product distribution, pricing, organizational structure, and organizational communication (external and internal communication)
- Managed control over the brand's financial activities to achieve set annual and quarterly targets: budget, sales and operating profit increased by 25%

- Strengthened branding initiatives by coordinating annual events to maximize outreach by 30%
- Initiated and managed overall company human resource development through personal leadership, regular training and motivational team meetings and activities
- Developed advertising campaigns for online channels, increasing efficiency by 20%, managed web content and coordinated digital marketing campaigns with a yearly budget of $1mln
- Directed a 35-members team focused on bolstering services, communications, campaign effectiveness and YOY sales.

Brand Manager | Louis Vuitton Moet Hennessy, Almaty, Kazakhstan

3/2021-9/2022

In my role as Brand Manager for Kenzo Perfumes (mainstream) and Aqua di Parma (niche) in Kazakhstan, I spearheaded the comprehensive development and execution of these brands' strategies, enhancing their market presence and solidifying their positioning. With a focus on driving market share growth, I orchestrated initiatives that led to an impressive 40% year-over-year increase in brand performance. Notably, our efforts propelled Aqua di Parma to attain the coveted second position in the niche segment. Leading a dedicated team of three professionals in the office and overseeing a field team of 20, I managed a broad scope of responsibilities within the fragrance industry, ensuring consistent brand success through meticulous planning, innovative marketing tactics, and strategic market penetration efforts.

- Implemented new brand positioning strategy for Kenzo and Aqua di Parma brands, emphasizing the online presence on different platforms and e-commerce websites (content development, copywriting, SEO, and social media engagement) – received Best practice awards for two consequential years
- Conducted market research studies and competition analysis to evaluate current market trends and price strategies with following improvement of sales by 40%
- Negotiated with retailer chains the most cost-effective price structure for product distribution
- Developed and executed a digital marketing campaign for Meta and TikTok that increased social media engagement by 15%
- Provided leadership, motivation, and coached sales team, ensuring projects are managed and executed in an efficient and effective manner from creative inception to completion
